Reader: Oda Sensei! Yahoo!!!!

Oda: Yahoo!!!! (Just playing along)

Reader: I have a question! Does Momoo belong to the sea king family? A friend of mine said that he was something called a sea king.

Oda: Momoo? Actually, I have classified Momoo as a "sea monster." In our world, we have sea mammals like seals and whales and it's the same in One Piece. So think of a sea king as a large creature that lives in the sea that's not a sea mammal.

Reader: Does One Piece have a website?

Oda: Well, it does and it doesn't. One Piece shares the Shonen Jump website. Please take a look.

Reader: Oda Sensei, please hear me out!

I was standing in a bookstore, reading, when I thought of something. Does Vivi have any connection to ancient Egypt? Her full name is Nefeltari Vivi and her father was Nefeltari Cobra. In ancient Egypt, Nefertari had the meaning of "most beautiful one" or "most exalted one" and many queens and princesses had those hieroglyphics on their portraits. Furthermore, Alabasta seems to be a desert nation. And her father's name is Cobra. I'd like to know if I'm right. If so, please acknowledge me as Know-It-All Himeko's rival-Maimai.

Oda: I see... So that's what Nefertari means, huh? How nice. Actually I did model Alabasta after ancient Egypt, and I flipped through a book on Egypt and picked words that sounded interesting. It seems I managed to pick a nice name. (talking to myself.) All right! I acknowledge it! You rival Know-It-All Himeko!!
